LBJ May Ask Summit Meet On Near East

OTTAWA (AP) — President Johnson told Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson he may propose a Big Four summit conference if the United Nations fails to cool off the Middle East crisis, a Canadian government informant said today.

The informant said Johnson broached the idea to the Canadian leader during their luncheon conference Thursday at Pearson's lakeside summer residence 20 miles from Ottawa.

Both leaders expressed hope, the informant said, that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant would have some solution as a result of his meeting in Cairo this week with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

If Thant fails, Johnson was reported to have said, however, that if Thant's efforts failed and if the 15-nation Security Council is unable to agree on measures to ease the crisis, Johnson would favor meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Pearson agreed that four-power talks at the top level would be desirable if U.N. efforts broke down, the informant said, but he told the President that Canada would prefer a U.N. settlement involving the establishment of a border patrol along the Egyptian-Israeli frontier.

Recall Force

Thant pulled the U.N. Middle East peace force out of the area last week in response to demands by Nasser.

Johnson and Pearson held a news conference just before the President returned to Washington but gave no hint of possible solutions to the Middle East crisis which they had discussed.

Johnson said the talk covered "problems of peace in the world today," including the Middle East situation and the Vietnam war. Pearson said they discussed "the very dangerous and difficult international situation."

Neither gave any details. France earlier this week proposed that the Big Four join in a concerted effort for peace in the Middle East but made no mention of a summit conference.

Soviets Cool

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg seconded the French proposal at the Security Council meeting Wednesday but got a cool reception from Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko. Fedorenko did not reject the proposal outright but said if the United States and Britain really want to relax tensions, they should withdraw their Navy ships from the Mediterranean.

The Russians also rebuffed British Foreign Secretary George Brown this week when, during a visit to Moscow, he sought to enlist them in a joint four-power peace effort.

Arabs Pressured

Informed sources in Moscow expressed belief that the Kremlin, while putting pressure on the Arabs to avert a war in the Middle East, is determined to play a lone role. The Russians were understood to hold the view that a Middle East war would serve the interest of no nation, but that the Soviet government and the Western powers should exert their influence separately to avert an explosion.

The Kremlin was reported undecided whether to support some sort of U.N. presence in the Middle East or to work outside the world forum in seeking to reduce tensions.

Nasser was reported to have accepted a proposal by Thant to revive the U.N.-Egypt-Israel Mixed Armistice Commission set up by the 1949 armistice agreement. But he was believed unlikely to agree to withdraw the forces with which he is threatening to blockade the Gulf of Aqaba against Israeli shipping, the element of the situation that at present seems most likely to result in war.

Red Ambushers Maul Yanks In Jungle Battle

SAIGON (AP) — A company of about 150 American soldiers was badly cut up today fighting off an ambush by North Vietnamese soldiers wearing flashy red berets and Communist suicide snipers lashed in trees.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said five of the American troops were killed and 46 wounded, but a report from the battlefield said about half of the company was killed or wounded. The U.S. Command said 71 North Vietnamese were killed.

As the 4th Division infantrymen fought for three hours in the thick jungle of the central highlands, U.S. Marines battled for a hill in the southern part of the demilitarized zone. Other action was reported in the muddy Mekong Delta and near Saigon, where three helicopters were shot down and eight more riddled by bullets while evacuating a South Vietnamese patrol.

Commander Cut Down

AP Correspondent John Wheeler reported from the central highlands that the 4th Division company was hit while searching the jungle for two Red regiments. The company commander was cut down in the first volley of coordinated sniper and mortar fire.

The Communists attacked a few hours after daybreak in an area where the 4th Division men have fought six stiff fights in the past eight days. The battlefield was just over three miles from the Cambodian border on the western border of Pleiku Province.

One assault was made by about 30 North Vietnamese wearing camouflaged uniforms and red berets. Wheeler, who was with the company that was hit, said the Reds were beaten off by defenses hastily organized by the company's noncoms when most of the officers were shot down.

The thick double-canopy jungle made it difficult initially to bring in accurate supporting air and artillery fire. The Communist snipers were lashed high in the dense foliage and their fire caused many of the American casualties.

Beat Off Charges

During the battle, one platoon from a nearby company managed to fight its way through to join the embattled company.

Holding their ground determinedly, the Americans formed a perimeter and found what cover they could against the raking fire of Red mortars and the quick-firing AK47 sub-machine guns carried by the North Vietnamese troops.

Each time the North Vietnamese tried a stand-up charge through the jungle, they were thrown back.

Fighting broke off when artillery, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships laid a blanket of fire to pin down the North Vietnamese while the Americans pulled back.

U.S. Aided Arab's Most

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has sent more than $2 billion in aid since World War II to five Arab nations involved in the current Middle East crisis with neighboring Israel.

That's nearly twice the dollar value of all forms of U.S. government aid to Israel.

But unlike the Arab nations, Israel has in the United States private sources of aid and financing that have provided the Jewish homeland funds at least equaling the total of U.S. government help to Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Yemen and the United Arab Republic.

Military aid of $227.8 million included in the total for Israel's Arabic neighbors has gone almost entirely to Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Most of Jordan's $66 million has been outright grants of money and excess American military equipment. But government records show substantial portions of the $517.2 million in economic aid for Jordan has gone into construction of roads and facilities planned to bolster the kingdom's defense position.

The United States has aided Egypt to the tune of $1.13 billion — or more than half the total assistance to the Arab states of the Middle East.

All of this aid has been economic, and most has gone to Egypt through the Food for Peace program. Sale in Egypt of this food, mostly grains, has in turn generated local currency loans to the government of President Gamal Abdel Nasser and lesser amounts to Egyptian private industry.

As in many countries, these loans are repaid or credited to the account of the United States in local currencies and do not come back to Washington in the form of dollars.

Food shipments to Egypt ceased last June, but technical assistance valued at about $1.4 million continues. Also still under way is a $9.5-million program of feeding people, conducted through voluntary agencies working with the U.S. government.

Egyptian Press Says Israel's Plan Frustrated

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egypt has achieved its objectives in its military confrontation with Israel and if there is to be war Israel will have to start it, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram of Cairo said today.

A full-page editorial written by Mohamed Hassunien Heikal, who often reflects the political thinking of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said Egypt had frustrated what he called an Israeli plan to attack Syria and had accomplished a blockade of Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Egypt finds itself compelled at this stage to stop at what it has accomplished so far, even if this means that we wait to receive a blow from Israel," Heikal wrote.

Fire At Jets

"Let Israel start. This will be followed by a second blow on our side which will be the death blow."

At the same time, Associated Press Correspondent Hanns Neuberg reported from the Jordanian port of Aqaba that the head of the gulf that Egyptian

Driver License Grab In Traffic Cases Is KO'd

LANSING (AP) — A measure that would have forced a driver to surrender his license if arrested for a traffic violation was killed Thursday in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, committee chairman, said the committee was "fully aware of the grave problems presented by the great number of unanswered summonses for traffic violations."

But he said the legislation was vague and imperfect on procedure and had not been given proper consideration.

Under the proposed new law, a driver stopped for a traffic violation would have been required to surrender his license to the police officer.

Temporary Permit

The motorist then would be given a temporary permit expiring on the court date set down by the officer. If the motorist ignored the ticket and did not appear in court, the temporary permit would automatically expire and the motorist would be driving without a license.

The measure breezed through the House on a 96-5 favorable vote.

Hearing of "an ominous prognosis" from the Senate Judiciary Committee, Secretary of State James Hare wrote Gov. George Romney asking for his support in getting the bill out of committee for debate and passage.

The governor was in New York City for a speaking engagement when the bill was killed in committee.

The measure, backed by Hare as chairman of the state safety commission, was modeled after an Illinois law. Hare said it was needed to control an increasing number of motorists ignoring traffic violation notices.

Hare Pushes It

Hare had termed it "one of the most important pieces of legislation to be considered by the Michigan Legislature in many years."

Richardson said one flaw in the bill is that the police officer cannot set a court date—that is up to the judge.

Meanwhile, he said, State Police are working on the use of computerized data machines to furnish information on drivers to officers on the road.

The officer arresting a motorist can receive by radio information previously placed in the computer on any traffic summonses outstanding against the driver.

Richardson said this will overcome the problem of drivers who ignore summonses. A spokesman for the secretary of state's office, he said, admitted this would cut the problem about in half.

City Workers Strike Ban Is Kept As Threat

LANSING (AP) — The House voted Thursday to table its controversial public employee strike bill—allowing it to loom threateningly over this summer's teacher contract negotiations.

Flexing their muscles after Tuesday's special-election victory, House Republicans slapped down by straight party-line votes Democratic attempts to put the bill to a vote and defeat it.

Republican leaders obtained the support of all 54 GOP members to table the get-tough measure, which labor spokesmen vehemently opposed, but reportedly could not get the votes required to pass it.

Remains Alive

A bill laid on the table remains alive and before the House. A majority of the members serving (56 after today) could take it up and pass it at any time.

GOP Floor Leader William Hampton of Bloomfield Hills said that would be done "if the public employees engage in illegal strikes, or if the courts do not act responsibly in dealing with illegal strikes."

The bill, as amended by Republicans Thursday, includes these controversial features:

—The requirement that judges must issue injunctions against striking public employees.

—Binding arbitration of labor disputes involving police and fire employees.

Strike Policy Ban

A provision that public employees may not be affiliated "with any labor organization which asserts the right to strike against government."

—A specific ban on public employee strikes called to protest unfair labor practices by their employers.

—Requirement that police and fire employees may not belong to a union which represents other types of employees, and a similar requirement for supervisory personnel.

—Creation of a new bargaining step: Fact-finding by a 12-member public employment relations panel which would be attached to the governor's office.

—A ban on picketing to force recognition as a bargaining unit and a requirement that certified employee groups bargain with the employers.

GOP Is Edgy

Several Republican members said privately that, despite pressure from their leaders, they did not want to vote for the bill. It was not known, however, whether the party could have come up with the needed 55 votes to pass it.

But the GOP leadership beat down an attempt to put the measure to a vote when Speaker Pro Tem Martin Butth ruled the maker of the motion—Rep. John Kelsey, D-Warren—out of order because he made a "statement" before asking for the vote.

Kelsey's statement was: "You're a good speaker, too, Mr. Butth."

"I just wanted to pay him a gentlemanly compliment," Kelsey grinned after the session. "but he really hit me with both barrels."

Demos Lose

Democrats made a futile attempt to overrule Butth's decision.

Aqaba

Washington (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel hopes President Johnson will tell him what the U.S. intends to do to open the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping if diplomatic efforts fail to end a threatened Egyptian blockade.

The President returned Thursday from Montreal and Eban hoped to meet with him today.

antiaircraft guns apparently fired on two Israeli Mirage jet fighters from Egypt's side of the gulf. But the planes landed apparently undamaged at Elath, the Israeli port two miles across the bay from Aqaba.

Two explosions reverberated around the hilly rim of the gulf shortly before noon and the Mirages returned to Elath from the direction of the Egyptian border.

Soviet For Peace

Earlier in the week Egyptian shore guns fired on an Israeli torpedo boat and forced it to return to Elath.

In a related development, Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain wound up talks with Soviet leaders and Moscow and said he found the Russians had "an urgent desire to defuse the situation" in the Middle East.

He left for London after conferences with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Brown said the Soviet leaders had been officially informed only Thursday night of the French proposal for a joint peace effort by the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France.

Kremlin For Arabs

He said it was too early to expect a Kremlin decision. It was understood by other Westerners in Moscow, however, that the Russians want to seek a solution independently. The Kremlin has lent moral support to the Arabs.

A dispatch from Damascus said Syria had rejected the French proposal, saying: "The Arabs no longer accept guardianship of the Middle East by anyone." President Nasser was reported Thursday to have reacted favorably to the French idea.

American families and other foreigners began hurrying out of the Middle East. Wives and children of U.S. officials in Israel started flying to Rome to wait out the crisis. In Cairo, a U.S. embassy official reported 140 of the 433 American dependents scheduled to leave would depart tonight for Athens, Greece.

Americans Leave

Only dependents of U.S. officials — more than 500 women and children — were under orders to leave Israel and Cairo. Between 8,000-10,000 Americans live as permanent residents in Israel but only a few have left. About 3,000 Americans live in Police said Krisan apparently walked in back of a car operated by Mrs. Roberta Lee De Commer, 23, as she backed from the driveway.

Prexy Ouster Asked

FAIRFIELD, Iowa (AP) — Parsons College, once a quiet little Presbyterian school, has repeatedly been a center of controversy since Dr. Millard Roberts became president. Now the faculty has demanded his ouster and set the campus astray again.

Members of the staff, in a 101-58 secret ballot made public Thursday, adopted a resolution of "no confidence" in Roberts' policies and asked the college board of trustees to remove him.

The Parsons student radio station took a poll of the student body Thursday night and reported 811 favored the faculty resolution, 487 voted for Roberts and 342 abstained for lack of information.

Parsons was a small denominational college when Roberts took over in 1956, built its enrollment from several hundred to 5,300, and made it a "second chance" school for students who had flunked out elsewhere.

Dr. Millard Roberts

He also said that Parsons was a financially sound, money-making institution, one of the factors disputed by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools when it revoked Parsons' academic accreditation last month.

Roberts, on a speaking tour in Reading, Pa., was asked about the faculty action. He said he was not unduly concerned.

"I think a faculty has a freedom to vote what it wants to in this country," he said. But he added that it's the Parsons Board of Trustees, not the faculty, who will decide who is to be president.

The trustees meet June 2-3. In its revocation order, effective June 30, the association cited an alleged high faculty turnover rate as one of the reasons accreditation was being withdrawn.

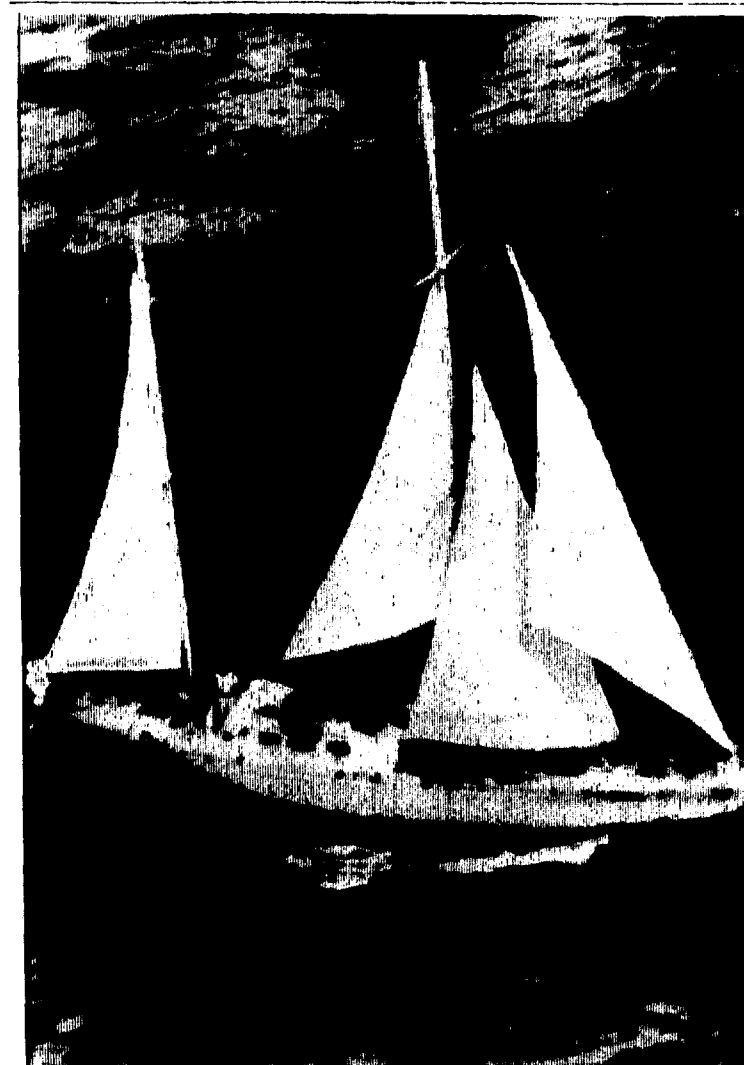

The association noted that Parsons had current bills totaling $1.94 million, long-term debt of $9 million, and yet draws 97 per cent of its income from student fees.

Greek Leftists Are Set Free

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek military regime announced today it has released 270 political prisoners rounded up as known leftists in the early hours of the April 21 coup.

This was the second group to be set free in the last 10 days from the southeastern Aegean prison island of Yfoursa, where about 6,000 persons are being held. About 250 were released May 17.

A government announcement said the released prisoners were brought to the Greek mainland by a navy landing craft and sent home late Thursday night.

Presbyterians End Assembly

PORTLAND, Ore. — After calling for a day of prayer for peace in Vietnam, approving the Confession of 1967, and making pronouncements on issues of the church and society, the 179th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. closed its sessions here this week, and commissioners, including 38 from the Synod of Michigan, headed homeward.

Through the aid of the National Council of Churches the church leaders wish to have all faiths participate in a day of prayer on a date mutually agreed upon as soon after June 1 as possible.

The United Presbyterians issued a "declaration of conscience" to be read from the pulpits of the churches. "There is no moral issue more urgently confronting our church and nation than the war," the statement said. "The churches dare not remain silent. We must declare our conscience." Members of the denomination will be asked to fast on the Sunday the declaration is given and to receive offerings for civilian victims of the war.

The confession, which is the result of study and discussion since 1958, is the first major declaration on doctrinal standards in over 300 years.

Commissioners called upon the church's 3.3 million members to study and broaden the ministry to the aging, to increase evangelistic efforts and to promote programs for social justice.

Mrs. Luther Berhenke, Midland, president of the United Presbyterian Women, reported that the national women's unit contributed a total of $5,625.62 to denominational boards and agencies.

She told newsmen she plans to establish similar centers costing more than a million dollars for children of mixed blood in Japan, Okinawa, Formosa, the Philippines, Thailand and South Vietnam.

Smith Counsels Alaskan Growth

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — The possibility of a dome-enclosed, all-electric city in the future development of Alaska was raised here today by Dr. R. L. Smith, president of Michigan Technological University at the Alaska Purchase Minerals Conference, held as part of the Centennial celebration.

"Let's combine massive development of Alaska's vast hydroelectric potential with the dome city idea — open to the wonderful Alaska light and aurora," Dr. Smith said. He envisioned an entire "self-sufficient, all electric city — not interconnected buildings — with botanical gardens heated by hydroelectric power."

Dr. Smith also discussed Alaska's tremendous wealth and pointed to its important role in the nation's security and defense and its untapped natural resources. He included wood, outdoor recreation and research, mineral deposits, the fishing industry and the potential low cost power in Alaska's rivers. "Development of these offers a tremendous challenge," he added. "Alaska should take a lesson from history and beware of basing its future solely on an exploitation economy."

Dr. Smith said it is easy to indicate what needs to be done but the big question is who is going to do it? Problems such as the marginal condition of Alaska agriculture, the state's need for better roads and communications facilities, wasted hydroelectric power and the growing demands for better housing and similar services do not have an easy solution. These problems, combined with the extreme weather conditions in Alaska, all add up to a difficult situation.

Michigan Tech's chief administrator, who spent 10 years in Alaska and received a degree in mining and metallurgical engineering from the University of Alaska in 1943, said it would take ventures such as those in Siberia to develop Alaska.

Garrison's Inquiry

Senator Russell Long (D-Louisiana) has stated on a national television program that New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison has turned up "some very important evidence" which might prove that President Kennedy was murdered by conspirators.

Long said that he had always thought that there was a conspiracy to kill the President and that Garrison's theory of an assassination plot "will make a lot better sense to the average American than the theory of the Warren report."

Unfortunately what Senator Long suggests may be true: that the truth of the Kennedy assassination — as nearly as our legal and criminal investigation processes could identify it — isn't as appealing to many persons as the suggestion that the truth hasn't been told.

There's a rush by some to believe that a Presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren did a rush job of whitewashing after the assassination. Most of our legal experts say that the evidence collected by the Warren Commission would have been much more than ample to convict in a court of criminal justice; that it was unusually exhaustive and complete.

But it found that a "loner," Lee Harvey Oswald, who had been in Russia, was the assassin and that he acted alone and not as the executioner for a conspiratorial group. This was hard for millions to believe. Even Mrs. Kennedy in her anguish, when told that a crank had killed her husband, cried out that it robbed his death of meaning.

So when politically ambitious District Attorney Jim Garrison in New Orleans announced that he had solved the Kennedy assassination conspiracy the whole world perked up its ears. The foreign press sent reporters to New Orleans to hear the plot unraveled. The process is still going on after months and it is a weird mish-mash of accusations that Clay Shaw, a New Orleans socialite, plotted to assassinate President Kennedy, but not necessarily that he was connected with the actual deed in Dallas.

The grand jury that indicted Shaw didn't suggest that anyone other than Oswald killed the president.

Newsweek Magazine sent veteran reporter Hugh Aynesworth, who had covered the assassination, to New Orleans for five weeks recently to investigate Garrison's bizarre inquiry into the "plot" to kill President Kennedy.

He found Garrison what New Orleans calls a smart operator: a bit unusual in his methods, but no fool. He had made his reputation as a DA by cleaning up New Orleans French Quarter and by accusing eight criminal judges of working too little and of winking at the Mafia. When he announced his conspiracy case, New Orleans thought he had something.

In the beginning, says Aynesworth, Garrison theorized that Oswald was an anti-Castro agent whose original mission was to kill the Cuban dictator. When Oswald couldn't get to Cuba, Garrison charged, the plot turned about and the plotters set up Oswald in the Kennedy killing in Dallas because of anger over the Bay of Pigs invasion fiasco in Cuba.

But Garrison's theory of how his "plot" operated has undergone so many changes that his composite conspirator, says Aynesworth would now "probably be equal parts Oswald, homosexual, right-wing extremist, FBI agent, Cosa Nosa hood, Central Intelligence Agency operative and Russian double agent."

Aynesworth says that the real question in New Orleans is no longer whether Garrison has "solved" the assassination. "The question is how long the people of the city and the nation's press will allow this travesty of justice to continue?"

Farther Afield

From Bolivia and Venezuela in Latin America to Rhodesia in Africa, guerrillas trained in Cuba are today directing revolutionary movements, subverting governments and fomenting civil wars.

Fidel Castro is on the warpath again. Spurned by Red China and restrained by the Russian "revisionists," Cuba's bearded dictator has decided to go into the revolutionary business on his own.

According to U. N. diplomats, Castro recently has agreed to train guerrillas in Eritrea, where a leftist secessionist movement is waging a mounting campaign of terror and harassment against the Ethiopian government of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Cuba's dictator has never made a secret of his belief that for him communism means a "romantic" revolutionary line — an adherence to guerrilla struggles. He sees this as his important contribution to revolutionary strategy.

Though his very existence depends on Russian economic aid, Castro even denounced his Soviet and East European benefactors because they seek to improve relations with the non-Communist states in Latin America.

The Cuban dictator has obvious reasons for resenting Moscow's flirtations with the more liberal regimes of Latin America. He sees the policy of reforms of the liberal regimes — especially since the recent summit conference at Punta del Este — as a direct challenge to his own hopes for revolution throughout the American continent.

The Russians are also reported to have discreetly given assurances to the Latin Americans that they will not support Castro's guerrillas operating in Guatemala, Bolivia, Venezuela and Colombia.

The Cuban's revolutionary ambitions were at first directed mainly at Latin America. But his increasing isolation in the Western Hemisphere, as the Punta del Este meeting emphasized anew, and the setbacks suffered by the guerrilla groups have caused him to look for "revolutionary victories" farther afield.

Voter Services

Escanaba's League of Women Voters is a group of women devoted to public service and our community is better for their work for it. They study issues and make recommendations to a public that won't take as much time as individuals to do the job itself. They hold public meetings at which candidates for office are interviewed. They distribute free Voter Guides and other literature aimed at helping to educate the voter so that he can be an informed citizen.

The League is seeking $600 to continue this service. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Vernon Wicklander, 220 S. 17th St., the League treasurer.

Four Years Behind

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Apollo fire is only one of a series of major National Aeronautics and Space Administration failures of late.

With only a single launch that ended in failure, the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory has by now already cost more than twice the original estimate for the entire series of observatories.

The program is now four full years behind schedule.

Major design and fabrication changes are now under way.

Investigation of the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory failure disclosed so many major deficiencies in the system and in NASA management that the House of Representatives subcommittee responsible for space science and applications voted to recommend against added funds for the project.

The subcommittee said that NASA must come up with something that would convince Congress that it had adopted effective management practices and a sound basic design before expecting funds beyond the two Orbiting Astronomical Laboratories already under construction.

Three Orbiting Geophysical Observatories have been launched. Two were failures. The third was a partial success. In each of the three flights the stabilization and control subsystem developed serious problems.

The problem is that the geophysical observatory spacecraft are apparently overly complex. The House subcommittee voted to allow the next two Orbiting Geophysical Observatories to be completed because they are so far along in development. But it voted unanimously to hold up additional funds until NASA radically revamps its over-all program and spacecraft design.

The first Biosatellite mission ended in failure early this year. The retrorocket system failed. The program has shown striking increases in costs. Again, a slash in funds was recommended by the subcommittee.

There are indications that men working on some of these NASA programs have grown sloppy because they have not been checked on with sufficient frequency or thoroughness.

For years, NASA experts have "snowed" congressional committees with highly technical data and explanations that only experts could understand. These space managers have been treated with a certain amount of awe.

Congress learned a lesson when it set in motion investigations into just a few limited areas of the space programs.

The results were astounding. Last year's investigation of automatic data processing at Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt, Md., for example, resulted in tighter management, savings of $4 million and more definitive budget data being given Congress.

This all seems to show that what NASA needs above all is continuous tighter supervision by the President, Congress, the Government Accounting Office and the public.

The Doctor Says: Sure Way To Create Stutters

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

A mother writes that her 4-year-old son stutters. He doesn't repeat just the initial consonant but a whole word several times. She wants to know whether she should call his attention to this habit or shut her eyes and hope it will go away.

There is no surer way to make a permanent stutter of a child than to call his attention to this type of speech. All children repeat sounds when they are excited and, if the habit is ignored, it will disappear. If attention is self-conscious about his speech. For him, speaking is then no longer a natural process, accomplished by second nature, but a painful exercise.

Once a child loses confidence in his ability to speak naturally his problem becomes fixed. From then on he may be a stutterer or, if he overcomes it, he will do so only by a monumental effort.

Q — A 10-year-old girl still sucks a pacifier. She can hardly wait till she gets home from school to have it. Is this the fault of the child or her parents?

A — This is a variation of the thumb-sucking problem. Most children give up the habit by the time they enter first grade. A child who fails to do so is emotionally disturbed. Let's not worry about who is at fault. This child needs the help of a doctor who is well-grounded in child psychology.

Q — Our 4-year-old grandson lost all his hair when he was about 2 years old. Now it will grow in, only to fall out ing Geophysical Observatory spacecraft to be completed because they are so far along in development. But it voted unanimously to hold up additional funds until NASA radically revamps its over-all program and spacecraft design.

Contract is descended from the game of whist through grandfather bridge and father auction. One of the few direct heritages is the standard lead of fourth best of a long suit unless you have a strong reason to lead another card in the suit. Not only do you lead fourth best but if your partner wants to return a low card in his suit he returns his fourth best also.

West saw no future in a lead of any suit but hearts. He only had three hearts, so he led his lowest. East won with the ace and returned the six, his original fourth best.

South looked over dummy and noted that West had attacked in the one suit that could hurt him. In rubber bridge he would duck once on general principles but the game was match point duplicate and South saw a chance to make 12 tricks and a top score if everything went well.

He rose with the king and it was West's turn to do some real thinking. West noted that he had found the best opening lead. Should he hold onto his queen of hearts and make sure of holding declarer to four no-trump or should he jettison that queen of hearts and take a chance on actually beating the contract?

West's first decision was that his partner was clearly marked with either four or five hearts. If East held only three, South would have a five-card suit and no one conceals a five-card heart suit when he has a good chance to bid it.

West thought a little more. If the six had been fourth best, then East had to hold both the eight and the nine. West had seen all other cards higher than the six.

That was enough for West. He dropped his queen to get out of his partner's way, eventually gained the lead with the king of spades and gave his partner three heart tricks to set the contract.

The Eyes Are Open So Are The Mouths

Dear Ann Landers: I don't sleep in my wife's nightgowns, nor do I wear her girdle, but if I did I can't see that it would be any of your business — or anyone else's for that matter. Recently I had an experience along these lines and it turned me up.

I have been having trouble with my ankles lately, a general weakness of the muscles. My podiatrist suggested that I walk around the house in my wife's high heels for an hour or two during the evening. The other night the kid who delivers papers came to collect. I answered the door in my wife's high heels. The boy almost died laughing, and now it is all over the neighborhood.

Why are people so eager to put two and two together and get six? I hope you will print my letter and open a few eyes. — NORMAL NORMAN

Dear Norman: Apparently the eyes are already open. It's the mouths you are having trouble with.

In all fairness, you can hardly blame the kid. One does not expect to see the man of the house klomping around in his wife's shoes. You asked for it.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of parents of a working son or daughter who demand a share of that person's salary even though they don't need it? I am 19, have a good job and want to save some money so I can be married. But how can I save anything when these vultures demand one-fourth of my paycheck every week?

I have been working for seven months but I never had to pay any board or room. Suddenly my folks decided I should contribute to the house. They told me I have no choice — either contribute or leave. Can they evict me? What are my legal rights? — SON OF MONEY GRABBERS

Dear Son: Legal rights vary according to the state, but in my opinion, this is not a matter of law, it is a matter of personal integrity.

A boy 19, who is earning money and living at home, should pay something for room and board and laundry. I'll bet, plus telephone and maid-service, etc. whether his folks need it or not. He should pay because he does not want to be a parasite. Your attitude leaves a lot to be desired, fella.

Dear Ann Landers: Please settle an argument: My fiancée and I plan to be married soon. Her family is from another country. None of them will be able to attend the wedding. My parents are giving us the wedding reception as a gift.

The problem is that my parents want us to set all the gifts aside and open them in their presence — just the four of us. My fiancée and I feel that these are OUR gifts and we should not be asked to share the opening with anyone, what do you say? — FEELINGS AT STAKE

Dear Feelings: Why be so selfish? Pass the joy around. If they want to be present, let them. It costs you nothing.

Confidential to Worried and Nervous: The answer is no. It is not possible. A 16-year-old girl who would have to ask this question is in desperate need of information. Go to the public library and get "Ann Landers Talks To Teen-Agers About Sex" or buy a paperback.

What is love? How does it differ from sexual attraction? Read "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Send 35c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Copyright 1967, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate

Industry Seeks Gradual Water Code Upgrading

MARQUETTE (AP) — "Lake Superior is the last major hope of preserving a large body of fresh water in its original state in the U.S." A. R. Gleason, biology instructor at Lake Superior College at Sault Ste. Marie, warned Thursday night.

Gleason was speaking before the State Water Resources Commission meeting in Marquette.

The seven-man commission heard testimony from more than a dozen persons on a set of proposed interstate water quality standards for Lake Superior and the Menominee-Montreal River basin.

Tom Doyle, a member of the Department of Conservation fish division staff, warned industries and cities that water is a public resource and it is up to them to see that its use meets the new standards.

"The standards should be realistic, not idealistic," said William R. Beerman, manager of Kimberly-Clark Corp., a Wisconsin paper mill on the Menominee River.

"Companies could be put out of business anytime by radical or sudden changes of the rules," warned W. E. Raffin of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., of Iron Mountain.

Commission members said that industry will look more and more to the Lake Superior area to supply the vast amount of clean water it will need.

"Now is the time to enforce strict water control measures," they stressed.

Citizens Ask Housing Action

The Escanaba Citizens Advisory Committee Thursday voted to recommend to the City Council establishment of a Housing Authority and appointment of a Housing Director to study the feasibility of a senior citizens and low income family housing development in Escanaba.

The committee is expected to send a delegate before the city council to ask adoption of an ordinance.

Housing for senior citizens and low income families was discussed in detail at the meeting with Carl Anderson of Willow Creek Road presenting a study showing need for such a project in Escanaba.

With establishment of a Housing Authority, the city could seek federal aid for the project. Plans for housing projects already are underway in many Upper Peninsula communities, including Gladstone and Marquette, and housing development already has been completed and occupied at Sault Ste. Marie.

Purpose of the project would be to provide low-rent housing of acceptable standards for senior citizens and other families who have low incomes.

In other action, the Citizens Committee adopted the final form of its own bylaws.

Empire Mine Will Show Its Growth

By JAMES E. TRETHERWEY
Of The Panax Newspapers

Barely had the Empire Mine and pellet plant started operations in December, 1963, than the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. and its partners decided to expand this huge modern facility to take advantage of the growing demand for a high-quality iron ore product.

Today, little more than three years after the original "Empire" went into production at Palmer, about 600 men are at work in the enlarged building turning out enriched pellets at a rate in excess of 3,200,000 tons annually.

The expansion, which required an investment of some $50 million by McLouth Steel Corp., International Harvester Co., Inland Steel Co. and Cleveland-Cliffs, has more than doubled production from 1,400,000 to 3,200,000 tons a year.

$200 Million

With completion of the Empire expansion project, the five pelletizing properties operated by Cliffs on the Marquette Range represent an investment of nearly $200 million since 1954. The other properties are the Humboldt, Eagle Mills, Republic and Pioneer plants.

Together, they'll turn out more than eight million tons of pellets this year.

The enriched ore (the marble-like pellets are nearly 64 per cent iron as compared with 34 per cent when the ore is blasted from the pit) is being hauled down the lake from docks in Marquette and Escanaba in Cliffs' eight-vessel fleet and in ships of other companies to lower lake docks for shipment to steel mills.

3.4 Million Tons

Although the new addition was designed to bring the Empire's production to 3,200,000 tons annually, minor improvements already have pushed output toward a rate of 3,400,000 tons. "The plant already is exceeding our expectations," an official of Cleveland-Cliffs, operating agent for the owners, said.

That's quite a contrast with the original Empire mine, which produced a total of 768,000 tons from 1907 to 1928. The old mine turned out a hard, red siliceous hematite ore which couldn't be marketed today without the concentrating process which Cliffs' research and development programs have produced.

Self-Grinding Method

Visitors to the Empire Saturday will see grinding and concentrating operations different from the methods in use at other Cliffs plants on the Marquette Range.

At the Republic and Humboldt mines, for instance, conventional rod and ball mills are used to grind the crude ore. At the Empire, full autogenous grinding (ore grinding itself) is employed. It was the first such application in the beneficiation process in the iron ore industry in the United States. Sixteen of these huge mills, 10 of which are known as Rockcyl mills and six as Cascade mills and measuring 24 by 8 feet, are in operation in the grinding department. Each

Developer

Big is the word for Empire — as visitors to the expanded pelletizing plant at Palmer will learn Saturday.

One of the biggest results of pelletizing development was the construction of natural gas pipelines serving nearly the entire Upper Peninsula. With the expanded concentrating and pelletizing facilities in operation, approximately half a million dollars is being spent every month at the Empire for power and natural gas. That's $6 million a year.

The expansion project meant jobs for more than 1,000 persons at the peak of construction.

Prior to expansion, Empire employed about 375 persons. That figure is now 600 and headed for 650.

A year ago the payroll amounted to $251,500 a month; now it's up to $375,000. Annually, that's another $4,500,000 in circulation.

U.P. Generating Co., supplying electricity to Empire, Marquette's largest taxpayer, its plant alone is down on the tax rolls for more than $11 million; its coal pile for another $698,650.

costs $400,000, and will run continuously for four weeks before being shut down for a periodic check.

Very Finely Crushed The ore, which is crushed to less than nine inches before it moves into those mills, grinds itself into particles less than .012 of an inch in diameter.

The entire operation starts in the Empire pit, where mechanical drills up to 12½ inches in diameter drill holes 45 feet deep which are then loaded with explosives and blasted. An electric shovel loads huge vehicles capable of carrying up to 120 tons with the rock for hauling to the crusher.

Magnetic separators recover the iron in the crude ore, a process different than that in use at the Humboldt and Republic mines. In those properties, recovery of the iron ore particles is accomplished by the flotation method. The latter also is in use to a limited extent at the Empire.

Pellets Created

After all but 10 per cent of the moisture is removed by filter machines, the dewatered ore concentrate — with 20 pounds of bentonite added per ton to act as a bonding agent — is rolled into small sized pellets in nine 10 x 31 foot balling drums. To harden the pellets, they are fed to two 12-foot fide traveling grates for movement into the drying zone (temperature 700 degrees) and then to the pre-heating zone (1900 degrees).

Finally, the pellets are baked hard at 2,400-degree temperatures in two rotary kilns.

The finished product is conveyed to loading pockets or, if necessary, to stockpile.

Michigan Week Honorees

Canadian Couple City's Hospital Guests Today

Michigan Week activities in Delta County today include hosting a "Hospitality Couple" who will be showered with old-fashioned Michigan friendliness.

Tom Straebel, Hospital Day chairman, and the Escanaba Newcomers Club, have picked Mr. and Mrs. William Kameron, Jaeger Road, as the honoree couple.

The Kamers recently moved here from Northern British Columbia. They were to be entertained today by Mr. and Mrs. James Van Horn and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bryson. Mrs. Van Horn is Newcomers Club president and Mrs. Bryson is Newcomer Michigan Week chairman. Mrs. Michael Jensen, Newcomers hostess, coordinated the activities.

Plans for today include a sailboat ride on Little Bay de Noc on the Lieben, a steel-hulled motor sailer built by the T. D. Vinette Co. of Escanaba. The handsome craft is in the product of the year—from Saykily's Confectionery; potatoes from Albert Lippens, growers; eggs from Mel Taylor's poultry farm at Schaffer; cheese from Rapid River Creamery; pasties from Jensen's Pasty Shop; a periodical from Mead Corp.; and a copy of U. P. author John Voelker's latest novel, presented by American Timber Homes, Inc.

Escanaba was selected by the Kamers as the perfect site to build a sailboat. Kameron found the water and materials availability perfectly suitable.

Wife Teaching Mrs. Kameron is currently substitute teaching at the John A. Lemmer School. She will teach remedial reading this summer and will begin as an instructor at the John F. Kennedy School for Retarded Children.

In Canada Kameron worked as a professional wildlife photographer, commissioned by the Canadian Government to do films.

After the bill was disposed of, Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said one member had tried to lure another out of the chamber during a crucial vote by sending him a forged note saying Gov. George Romney wanted to see him.

Special Classes, Talks Given By School Leaders

Parents and friends of special education heard informative talks by Ray Godmer, superintendent of the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate District, and Luther Barrett, superintendent of Escanaba Public Schools, at a meeting at the John Lemmer School this week.

The meeting drew 50 persons from the area.

Godmer informed the group as to the history of special classes and the future of special education in the two county district.

Barrett discussed the programs already in operation in the Escanaba public schools.

It was agreed that the greatest problem hindering growth of anticipated and needed future programs is the difficulty in recruiting qualified personnel. Parents were given an opportunity to ask questions of the speakers and participate in discussions relating to special education.

The next meeting of the P. E. R. F. E. C. T. group will be held in September and officers will be elected at that time.

Egyptians Fire At Israeli Plane

AQABA, Jordan (AP) — Egyptian anti-aircraft guns apparently opened fire on two Israeli Mirage fighters today at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba.

What appeared to be two anti-aircraft gun explosions reverberated around the hilly rim of the gulf and two Israeli fighters landed shortly afterward at the Israeli gulf port of Elath, apparently undamaged.

The two Mirages landed after circling over Elath, which is two miles across the bay from Aqaba.

Samaritan Sect Showing Growth

NABLUS, Jordan (AP)—The Samaritans, half by the Jordanian government, are making a comeback.

A new survey made in this Jordanian city about 20 miles north of Jerusalem shows that from an all-time low of around 160 the community now is up to 345, with every prospect of increasing.

They have been regarded by the Jews as a dissident Hebrew sect since Old Testament days. Christians have a particular interest in the Samaritans because they are the subject of Jesus' first parable.

High Priest Amram Isaac, a patriarchal figure in dark robes and flaming red turban, attributes the upturn to two factors: the ending of centuries of persecution, and new blood coming in through conversions of outsiders marrying into the community.

Respected Citizens The high priests' office goes back to the days of Moses. But he shows with pride the newly built white limestone temple and comfortable houses in the Samaritan quarter of Nablus as evidence of his people's new status as respected citizens of the Jordanian kingdom.

The world's oldest surviving Judaeic sect also boasts a modern school, half-supported by

Crime Library Is Hoes' Job

Wesley Hoes of the Lansing Police Department heads a library with only about 200 books—all about crime. He is featured in a recent news article in Lansing as the man who has contributed a long list of "firsts" to the Department.

Hoes is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jensen, Lake Shore Road, Escanaba, and his wife is the former Barbara Jensen.

Three years ago there was no library. But on Jan. 1, 1964, Wesley Hoes, then riding a motorcycle in the Traffic Division, was appointed training and education coordinator for the department and there have been some big changes made.

Hoes, 32, joined the department in December of 1958, and spent five years in the Patrol, Traffic and Record Divisions before taking over the newly created training post. Hoes is also the coordinator of the new Mid-Michigan Police Academy.

A native of Escanaba, he served in the U. S. Army from 1955 until 1957 and then attended Michigan State University for two years. Since then he has taken part-time courses at Lansing Community College.

In addition to his police work, Hoes is a Deacon in the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Director of the Lansing Jaycees, Director of the Greater Lansing Board on Alcoholism, vice president of the Horsebrook Parent Teachers' Association, and an honorary member of Boys' State, where he has represented law enforcement for the past three years.

Johnson Cool To Pearson Plan Of Viet Peace Talk

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson suggested to President Johnson that he try to lure the North Vietnamese to the conference table with a dual announcement halting the bombing of North Vietnam and promising to go to Geneva for peace talks. A Canadian government informant said today, Johnson and his aides were reported cool to the proposal.

The informant said Pearson made his suggestion during his meeting with the President at the prime minister's country place outside Ottawa Thursday.

Pearson proposed that the President announce a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam and promise to be in Geneva at a specified date regardless of the response from Hanoi, the informant said.

The informant said the plan was not rejected outright, but that Johnson noted that bombing pauses in the past had produced no results. He also reportedly expressed belief that the possibility of making a trip to an empty conference hall in Geneva would damage the prestige of the U.S. presidency.

Canadian leaders who have been studying the idea felt that such a peace gesture by Johnson would put tremendous pressure on the Communists to send spokesmen to Geneva. They argued that any discussion between the two sides would be better than a steadily escalating war.

Informants said Johnson stressed repeatedly that he would listen to any reasonable peace proposal provided Hanoi gave some indication it would take corresponding conciliatory measures.

Delta Nurses Select New Committee Heads

The Delta District Nurses Association met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Boyle. The Nurse Practice Act of 1967 was discussed and it was decided not to support this act as a district because the statements regarding nursing functions and allied personnel duties and preparations were not sufficiently firm to meet the complex needs of nursing today. Chairman of standing committees were also selected and are as follows: Bylaws, Elizabeth Nelson; Legislation and Economic Security, Naomi Hult; Finance, Virginia Noreus; Publicity, Kathryn Pearson; Membership, Elizabeth Goulais; Program, Geraldine Van Enkevort; Illness, Dorothy Boyle; Nominating, Dorothy Murphy. A film on sex education, which may be shown in the schools next year, was previewed and endorsed by the association. Mrs. Naomi Hult was selected as the delegate to the Michigan Nurses Association Convention in Lansing in October. It is also hoped that the district will be able to partially meet the needs of other members who may desire to attend. Miss Elizabeth Nelson will be attending a MNA President's workshop at Mackinac Island in June. Nurses were also reminded of the spring clinics which are currently being offered at the University of Michigan to help the registered nurse keep in step with the change. Topics being discussed include, "New Approaches to the Control of Pain," "Current Trends in Patterns of Sex Education," "Differential Functions of the RN, LPN and Aide," and "A Team Approach to Patient Instruction and Counseling." Mrs. Elizabeth Goulais, director of the Practical Nursing Program at Bay de Noc Community College, is currently attending these sessions. The next meeting of the district will be held at St. Francis Hospital, June 19. All nurses are invited to attend as a party will be planned for July.

Charlene M. Winters, Mathew Lesnieski Wed

St. George's Church in Bark River was the setting Saturday, May 13 for the wedding of Miss Charlene M. Winters of Escanaba and Mathew D. Lesnieski of Rte. 1, Wilson. Rev. Thomas Dunleavy officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony and nuptial mass. Parents of the couple are Mrs. Audrey Winters of 306 N. 18th St., Escanaba and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Lesnieski of Wilson. The bride wore a floor length empire A-line gown of white organza with re-embroidered alencon lace trim, long tapered sleeves and a scoop neckline. A wateau chapel length train trimmed with lace was attached at the shoulders with tiny bows. A crown of pearls and crystals held her bouffant veil of imported French illusion and she carried a bouquet of white mums and red sweetheart roses. 42nd Anniversary The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Thorval Hansen, and May 13 was also the date of the 42nd wedding anniversary of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thorval Hansen. Their headpieces were of matching cotton blue with fly-away veils and they carried bouquets of white mums and blue carnations. Juda Graduates Miss 9 Girls Lost In Fire At Motel Last March

By JAMES R. POLK

JUDA, Wis. (AP) — Stiff and solemn in blue gowns, the survivors of Juda High School's senior class lined up for the baccalaureate march. The first 16 were boys. "You never can forget," said Donna Lehr, the class secretary. "It keeps coming back. Like 'Baccalaureate.' We marched through the door and you see all the boys. Just boys. Then the girls in a small group. 'There's just you and six others.' 'It's still hard to believe. It all seems so farfetched.' The other nine girls in the senior class died in an inferno of burning fuel when a jet airliner crashed behind a motel in a suburb of New Orleans. They were visiting the city on their senior trip. This is graduation week at Juda and strangely, at first, you see no evidence of grief. "People aren't flying any black flags or anything," says Paul Matzke, the postmaster. "But it has taken its toll." The scars of sorrow run deep among the 300 persons who inhabit this hilltop hamlet. They show themselves in small and subtle ways. Principal Jerome Kalk keeps waking up each morning at one minute before five. A mother stands in the dust near a barn and uses words like "is" and "does" as she talks of a daughter now dead nearly two months. Even pets mourn. Joyce Kaderly's cat, the one with 23 toes, still crawls restlessly through the house at night. Seventeen of the seniors sit in a classroom and talk to a stranger about themselves. Dan Leaver, the class valedictorian, says, "We were a close-knit group and this has made us closer. We are all friends and we try not to let it show where it hurts." The seniors will graduate tonight. The ceremony will be in the school gymnasium, where memorial services were held for the nine girls on a rainy Sunday in April. There will be diplomas for the parents of each victim. "It's not easy," says Mrs. Harry Smith, mother of one of the girls. "It's pretty tough, I tell you. We all go to these things and we cry." "It's like a funeral," said senior Ron Gruenberg. "You may not think about it all the time and maybe you will tell a joke afterwards and laugh a bit, but it's still in your mind." For days after the March 30 accident, whenever the school band marched out to practice in the spring warmth, Mrs. Smith would be gone from the yellow brick house on Main Street. Her daughter Nelva, 17, had been a baton twirler with the band. Seven girls were in the band. All nine were on the school newspaper staff, and from its pages, fragments of vignettes whisper of the past. "Nelva, what's keeping you from writing that letter to Mike A.? Does college keep him too busy?"

There was once a summer day and Nelva was Juda's dairy queen, helping serve cheese at the Green County Fair. Mike was a boy from Shullsburg, who walked up to the booth. He went off that fall to begin his college studies at Platteville, but he and Nelva wrote every week. "You never can forget," said Joyce Kaderly, 17, and her boy friend had a secret, a wedding date in July. He was a dairy farmer, out of school for two years. "I was going through some of her things this morning and I found the jewelry store ad she had clipped, for diamond rings," said her mother, Mrs. Edward Kaderly, twisting a ring on her finger. It was Joyce's class ring. Nancy Siegentahler was a homecoming princess. It was October and a bonfire blazed. She rode in a white convertible. Dan Leaver passed for one touchdown, ran for another. Juda beat New Glarus 20-14. The seniors danced until midnight. "I'm so lucky," Nancy wrote once in an English essay. Of the nine girls, only Nancy answered, "No," when the school newspaper asked seniors if they were anxious to graduate. Janice Siedschlag, 17, was anxious. She had so many plans. She had worked as a nurse's aide the past summer. She thought she might become a nurse or a teacher, or perhaps an airline stewardess. "She was almost too good," her father said on the day she died. "She pulled more than her fair share of the work. Only one child like that comes along in a family. I almost wanted to hold her back." Janice wrote in a psychology essay: "No, I can't say I'm a definite overachiever or underachiever. No, I'm not in a rut. I have so many things to do that I don't have time to get in a rut." Janice, like her cousin, Nelva, was thinking of attending vocational school in Madison. Nelva wanted to be a bookkeeper. Nancy Siegentahler planned to enter the same school, to become a secretary. College would last four years, vocational school only two. It wouldn't interfere if the right boy came along. Dark-haired, attractive Linda Moe, 18, wanted to be a secretary at the statehouse in Madison. Notice that she had passed the Civil Service test arrived at the two-story frame home on Maine Street the day of her death. "You don't forget," said Donna Lehr. "You can never forget. But things go on. You have to go on living."

Seniors, Would You Believe

You can become a general when you graduate instead of being drafted and made a private? Would you believe a lieutenant — and, in addition, the guarantee of your choice of work area with a two year and ten month tour of duty? Well, if you knew about the Army's new Officer Candidate School program, you'd know you'd be right. And if you'd like to find out about it, come talk to someone who knows — a man who graduated from college, entered this program, and was recently commissioned from OCS. You can believe he and his team will be on campus in the next few days.

Indian Lake Walleye Plant Is Completed

Planting of 4½ million walleyes in Indian Lake was completed this week by the Indian Lake Property Owners Assn.

The Association collected spawn from adult walleyes and brought the eggs to the fry stage in a hatchery constructed on the bank of the Indian River, at the old brewery bridge site.

Appreciation was expressed by the Association to all who helped man the hatchery. This marks the second year a hatchery was operated and the third year it planted walleyes in the lake. Good results have been noted in fishing of the lake and it is believed due in part to these efforts.

Percy May Run Gambrel Roof Revival Practical In Primaries

By Andy Lang

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Charles H. Percy says he might enter a presidential primary next year if that would help the candidate "I think best qualified" to win the Republican nomination for the White House.

"If the decision were today, I wouldn't go in at all," Percy said in an interview. "But it's conceivable, I wouldn't want to remove all possibility of my wanting to help someone."

Percy did not name a potential candidate as a man he might decide to assist. He said he expects to announce in advance of the Republican National Convention his choice for the nomination.

The Illinois senator has said in the past he considers New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller or the Republican best qualified for the presidency. Rockefeller insists he is not and will not be a candidate and has advised GOP moderates to unite behind Michigan Gov. George Romney.

The hypothetical strategy Percy outlined, in explaining his refusal to rule out presidential primary races in 1968, could fit a Rockefeller effort.

Percy, serving his first term in the Senate, has said repeatedly he can't conceive of circumstances under which he would become a presidential candidate.

But he has declined to declare flatly he will not run in the New Hampshire presidential primary, the nation's first. His position is the same on primaries in Nebraska and Oregon.

Walter Lippmann Stops His Regular Newspaper Pieces

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Lippmann—77 years old and a columnist for 36 years—has announced he is stopping his regular newspaper pieces.

In a brief final installment of his twice-a-week column, he wrote Thursday: "More and more, I have come to wish to get rid of the necessity of knowing, day in and day out, what the blood pressure is at the White House and who said what and who saw whom and who is listened to and who is not listened to."

The Los Angeles Times syndicate had distributed Lippmann's column since the New York World Journal Tribune went out of business recently. The New York Herald Tribune had been the home of his column from 1931 until the paper died last year.

Lippmann said he plans to write articles for newspapers occasionally.

MSU Students In Tuition Protest Earn Tired Toes

LANSING (AP)—Some 200 Michigan State University students are rubbing their tired toes today and pondering the effects of their protest march on the State Capitol.

Several state representatives and senators greeted the students on the capitol steps.

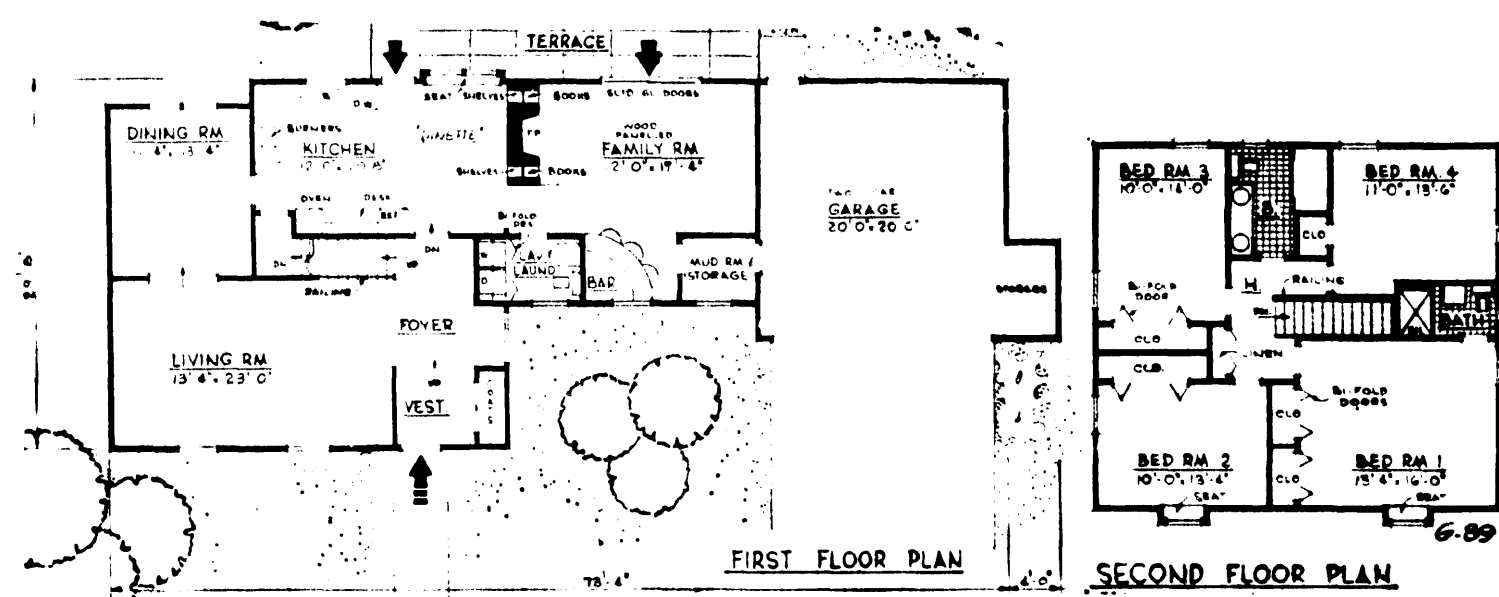

"Don't focus all the responsibility for any kind of increase on the Legislature," said Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit.

He suggested that the MSU administration might make cuts in the university budget so that students would not have to pay more than the current $354 annual resident tuition. Nonresident tuition now is $1,020.

Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, told the students they should protest to Romney.

DUTCH COLONIAL: Modern version of the old Dutch Colonial home, with the typical gambrel roof and wide use of textured materials, permits full development of the upstairs floor without the necessity of crowding rooms under low, slanted ceilings.

FLOOR PLANS: There are a number of interesting features in this layout, including the spacious vestibule preceding the foyer; the lavatory-laundry at the front; the corner refreshment bar; and the kitchen desk. All four bedrooms have cross-ventilation.

factory of wall space for satisfactory furniture arrangement. An interior storage and mud room is set at the right side of the house so that it can be entered from the garage, thus serving as a place to get rid of wet overcoats and work clothes before going into any of the rooms. The garage adequately takes care of two cars and, in addition, has a large storage alcove for power equipment and garden tools.

On the upper floor are four bedrooms and two baths. With a minimum of hall space, all rooms are conveniently accessible to the main stair. An abundance of closet space—over 35 linear feet—provides ample storage for a family requiring four bedrooms, all of which have cross-ventilation. Important to the facade of this house is the vast expanse of roof. Most manufacturers of roof shingles have introduced into their line materials of heavier texture. The play of sunlight and shadow on rough surfaces make for an attractive appearance. Wood shingles are shown for the side and rear exterior sidewalls. These may be either of the sawn cedar variety or lightweight hand-split.

Architect York uses clapboard and wood vertical boards in the front. Normally, fewer materials are preferable, but in a house such as this, with many breaks and interesting detail, a greater freedom of materials can be enjoyed. White sidewalls with a dark roof will provide excellent contrast, with accent color—green or blue—on the shutters.

G-89 STATISTICS

Design G-89 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, vestibule, family room, foyer, lavatory-laundry, storage-mud room and two-car garage on the main floor. Total habitable area on that floor, not including the garage, is 1313 square feet. There are four bedrooms and two baths upstairs, with an additional 971 square feet. The overall dimensions are 77' 4" by 29' 8".

KITCHEN LUXURY: Combined kitchen-dinette has all modern appliances, window seat and attractive brick wall, on the other side of which is the family room fireplace. Door at left leads to the terrace.

Vacuum System Built In For Maximum Quiet

If you are planning on remodeling your home to make it more enjoyable than ever, you will find that installing a built-in cleaning system will save time and steps while offering quiet, easy vacuuming throughout the house.

Users report that the built-in system is something they just wouldn't be without.

All you do is plug in — and vacuum. The tank with its powerful motor is mounted in your garage or basement. Dirt and dust are picked up by the light, easy-to-handle vacuum wand and whisked into the central dirt container (needs emptying only once every 6 to 8 months). There is no heavy tank to pull from room to room and no messy filter bag to change.

With dirt and dust being taken out of the living area immediately, many people with dust and pollen allergies are turning to built-in systems. The units have proved so effective that they are specified for use in electronics laboratory "clean rooms" where walls, floors, and ceilings must be kept dust-free.

Installation is readily accomplished in existing as well as in new homes. The system comes complete with a 38" tall wall-mounted tank and motor unit, along with a host of cleaning accessories.

Judge Sees Film Called Obscene; Hearing June 9

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The examination of three University of Michigan students and their faculty advisors on charges of showing an obscene film resumed in Ann Arbor Municipal Court here with the screening of the controversial motion picture "Flaming Creatures."

The film was shown in the City Council chambers. Windows were taped, but no effort was made to refuse admittance to anyone because the court hearing must be open under law. The film deals with nudity and rape.

Charged with showing an obscene, lewd, filthy and indecent motion picture were Ellen P. Frank, 19, of Detroit; Mary Barker, 20, of Flushing; and Elliot S. Barden, 20, of Oak Park, all students; and Hubert L. Cohen, 36, of Ann Arbor, the instructor.

The charge is a state statute and a misdemeanor. Maximum penalty is two years imprisonment and a $1,000 fine or both.

Judge S.J. Elden resumed the hearing after it was adjourned Jan. 30 to allow the defense to file a motion arguing the film was legally seized and asking that it be suppressed as evidence. Elden denied this motion before ordering the screening.

Washtenaw County Prosecutor William F. DeCher, who is handling the case, had argued the film was the main evidence and must be shown if the judge was to determine if a crime had been committed.

Elden adjourned the hearing until June 7.

Hemingway Tale

NEW YORK (AP)—A carbon copy of an unpublished story by Ernest Hemingway was sold for $6,250 recently by Charles Hamilton Autographs in an auction at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The story, called "Black Ass at the Crossroads," dealt with American soldiers during World War II.

State Workers Pay Liberalized

LANSING (AP)—The State Civil Service Commission moved to implement a liberalization in overtime pay policy for workers in five state departments.

The change, required under amendments to the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act, would be retroactive to last February.

It calls for payment of time and a half after eight hours worked in one day in hospitals and after 44 hours in one week in schools. The current civil service policy does not pay overtime until an employee accumulates 80 hours in a biweekly pay period.

The federal act was effective Feb. 5, 1967, but a question as to its application to state employees delayed implementation until now, the commission said.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has ruled that state employees do come under the act.

Employees in the state departments of mental health, public health, education, social services and corrections would be affected, the commission said.

Cost to the state for the upcoming fiscal year is $3.3 million and retroactive pay to last February would be about $79,000.

Court Says Juror Illegally Chosen; He May Appeal

PONTIAC (AP)—Circuit Judge Philip Pratt said that he probably would appeal the State Court of Appeals ruling that he was illegally appointed one-man grand juror for Oakland County. He called a halt, meanwhile, to grand jury operations.

Pratt and his legal staff began exploring possible action in the wake of Tuesday's ruling, which apparently was based on a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling that a one-man grand juror can't investigate the same subject matter for more than a year.

No decision on whether to appeal is expected for several days, Pratt said.

Other alternatives would be to end the investigation, name a successor to continue the probe, or start over with a new grand jury.

The present juror must end its work by Aug. 15 because of the same Michigan Supreme Court ruling. Pratt is investigating allegations of misconduct by officials in Oakland County.

He investigated the same matter in his first grand jury, which ended last June 17, and this one, which began Aug. 16.

Laminations In Kitchen

The American householder is disenchanted with old style kitchens and intends to do something about it.

At least, a recent survey conducted by the National Home Improvement Council indicates that 7 of 10 families plan to improve their present homes; and one-third will make it a kitchen modernization.

Exciting new products and design concepts have liberated the kitchen from its prosaic styling traditions and now qualify that room as one of a home's major decorative centers fostering the desire to modernize.

However, some sticky challenges face the home remodeler who is intent upon upgrading the styling of his kitchen. Modern appliances have lightened many of its burdens, but the kitchen remains the scene of the home's heaviest daily workload. The remodeler finds his challenge lies in selecting products that will provide long-term functionality as well as lasting beauty.

In a growing number of home renovation projects and in new home construction, laminated plastic is providing the answer to this challenge. An accepted feature on sink and counter tops for many years, laminates have moved into important new roles in total kitchen decorating.

Development of laminates for vertical application by Formica Corp. has opened their use as a total surfacing in cabinet and wall paneling applications in the kitchen.

Providing a rare combination of beauty and practicality, laminates are an ideal material for highly styled kitchen use. Their rugged surface cannot be permanently stained by stubborn grease residue so common in the kitchen. Cleaning is easy with a sponge, warm water and mild detergents sufficient in nearly all situations.

Recent product developments have increased designer acceptance for laminates. Three molding styles now available are the answer to the creation of period stylings with laminate, surfaced cabinets. A new classic suede finish from the same firm provides the look and touch of real wood, eliminating the glossy appearance and reflection once associated with laminates.

The laminate surface also resists marring and never needs refinishing, maintaining its original color and pattern constant use.

A broad spectrum of fashion colors, patterns and authentic woodgrain reproductions is available in laminates to meet any design requirement and complement any decor.

Manufacturers also offer 15 woodgrains and 9 solid colors for cabinet surfacing and 109 colors, patterns and woodgrains for counter top surfacing.

Percy Praises Bipartisanship

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., steered clear of politics Thursday as he spoke in Michigan, whose Gov. George Romney is an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Percy also has been mentioned as a potential candidate. Percy was in Grand Rapids for a Michigan Week speech sponsored by the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce and the Grand Rapids Rotary Club.

The senator from Illinois praised the bipartisan concept of American political life and said it is especially evident in times of conflict, such as the current Middle East situation, when the country unites.

He said the war abroad, "a war without end," and a revolution at home to secure social and economic justice for all, has created a confusing mood in America.

"Increasingly Americans are recognizing that our quality of life cannot be measured by the number of color TV sets or nuclear warheads," he said.

Percy added that an affluent society creates problems as well as rewards. With widespread prosperity comes giant business, government and educational complexes, he said.

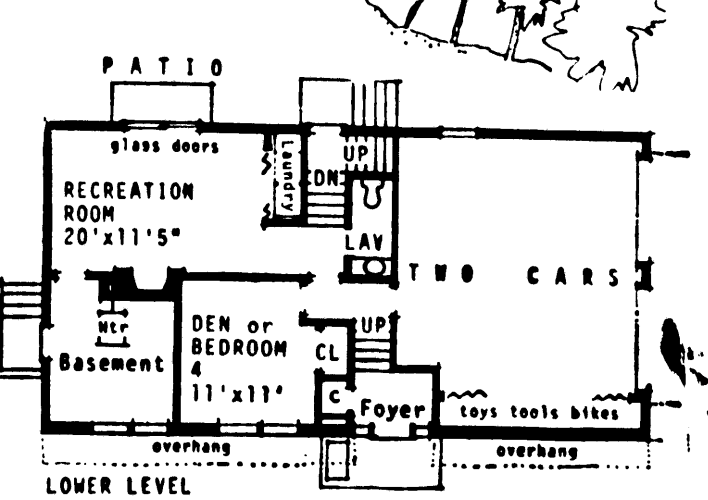

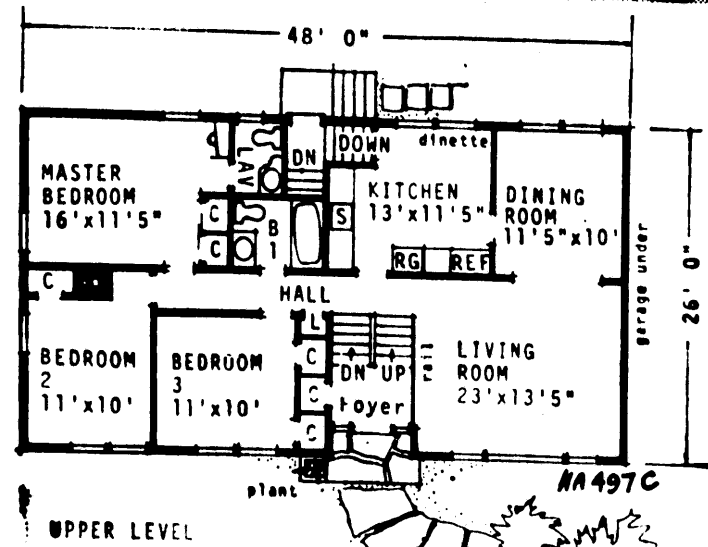

Muskegon Editor Becomes Teacher

Read is not leaving journalism, however.

Starting next fall, he will join the staff of Muskegon Community College to initiate a course in journalism.

Damaging Storm Hits East U.S.

By The Associated Press
Heavy rain, snow and gale winds swept wide areas in New England today as a damaging late spring storm caused flooding from Cape Cod, Mass., to Portland, Maine.

Gale warnings were posted along coastal areas of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

High tides, swept by the gusty winds, were 2 1/2 to 3 feet above normal from Cape Cod to Portland. Communities along the coast reported streets flooded up to 3 feet. Some families were evacuated. There were power failures in many communities, including several sections of Boston.

The high winds toppled utility poles, uprooted trees and smashed windows.

Damages Crops
The storms caused extensive damage to crops. Damage was estimated at $1 million to poles and nets used to protect the Connecticut River valley tobacco crop. The weight of the snow collapsed the equipment, mostly in the northern valley areas. Rain and snow also caused damage to other crops in New England.

Rangers at the Cape Cod National Seashore said winds of 75 m.p.h. Thursday lashed Provincetown, on the tip of Cape Cod. Winds were clocked at more than 50 m.p.h. along the New England coast and they were more than 60 m.p.h. along the Rhode Island coast and eastward to Cape Cod.

Snow In Vermont
Eight inches of snow was reported at East Burke, Vt., with 7 inches in mountain areas of New Hampshire. Six inches of snow fell in less than five hours Thursday at Montpelier, Vt. Snow mixed with rain in the cold air in Boston where the mercury dropped to 40 degrees, a record low mark for May 25. Snow mixed with rain also fell in Windsor Locks, Conn., the latest snow in the city in more than 60 years.

Rain hit wide areas from Atlantic City, N.J., to Burlington, Vt., and eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

Skyies were generally clear in most other parts of the nation. There was a display of the northern lights—aurora borealis—from Pennsylvania to Oregon and as far south as Kansas and Alabama. The Weather Bureau in Nashville, said the lights were the brightest in recent years in Middle Tennessee.

In contrast to the stormy cold weather in New England, temperatures were mild in the nation's midsection after record high marks Thursday in many cities for the second consecutive day.

Judge Denies Try To Block Building Home For Elderly

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—A last minute effort to block construction of a $1.8 million elder citizens home in St. Joseph failed in Berrien County Circuit Court.

Judge Karl F. Zick denied a suit by seven businessmen seeking an injunction against further construction of the project. A spokesman for the group said it had no plans to appeal.

Ground was broken Monday for the housing project on federal urban renewal land in downtown St. Joseph. The businessmen had contended the land could be used for better purposes.

Basic Tools For Workshop

Whether it's a shelf in a new home, repairing a porch on an old one, or creating a toy box for the children, woodworking can bring you the joy of accomplishment, help you keep repair bills down and offer you tremendous recreational dividends.

For the man or woman who wants to discover the fun and satisfaction that come from woodworking, here are a few simple and practical hints from the editors of Building Supply News to start you off.

First, decide where to set up shop. It should be in some part of the house, basement or garage, where a piece of unfinished business can be left without dismaying a tidy housekeeper. At the same time, it shouldn't be in a dark corner — you'll need light to work by — or too close to mechanical equipment, such as a furnace or water heater, which must be reached often.

You'll also need a temporary workbench. An old table or saw horses will do at first. You can construct your own workbench, or you may want to buy a ready-made bench.

Now you're ready to select tools. Building Supply News says it's a mistake to buy low-priced, inferior tools. Cheap tools won't do the job. Cutting tools which lose their edge, for instance, are a discouragement and a handicap. Think of the tool as an investment that will pay dividends over the years.

For storing your tools, you can use a tote box or a tool chest. Or you can buy a 2 by 4 ft. piece of perforated hardboard which can be hung on the wall above your bench with hooks to hold about 33 tools.

Acquiring tools one by one eventually will result in a matched set, without strain on the budget. Here is a list of basic tools which should be first in the workshop inventory:

- (1) 13-oz. or 16-oz. claw hammer.
- (2) Cut-off (or cross-cut) hand saw, 22 to 24 inches long, with 10 points to the inch.
- (3) Jack plane, 11 1/2 to 14 inches.
- (4) 10-ft. steel tape rule.
- (5) 12-inch combination square.
- (6) Two screwdrivers with 4-inch blade, one for slotted screws, the other for Phillips.
- (7) Hand drill or push drill with a set of drills.
- (8) Two chisels, 1-inch and 3/4-inch widths.
- (8) Two chisels, 1/4-inch and sweep and auger bits in 1/4, 5/16, 3/8, 7/16, 1/2, 3/4 and 1-inch diameters.

After some experimenting you can add to this basic set as you need them other tools that will lead to bigger projects, with even greater rewards.

These would include marking gauge, nail sets, rip saw, combination oil stone, oiler, screwdriver with 6-inch blade, 6-inch pliers, bit gauge, 6-inch block plane, screwdriver bits, woodworking vise, level, back saw, coping saw, utility knife, cabinet file, Bradawl and a set of combination drill and countersink bits.

Whether you are just starting out, or are ready to go on to bigger things, your building supply dealer is a good source of information on tool selection.

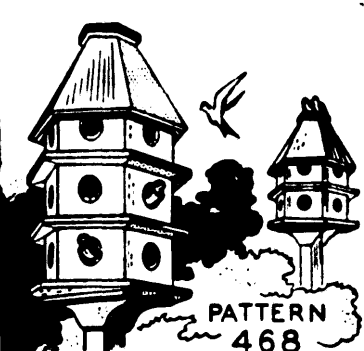

State Drivers To Log 566 Million Miles In Weekend

LANSING (AP)—Michigan motorists will log the equivalent of mileage needed to circle the world 22,600 times over the four-day Memorial weekend, reports the State Highway Department.

The department estimates the state's drivers will cover 566 million miles during the weekend. This compares with a total of 436 million miles recorded over a three-day weekend when Memorial Day fell on Monday.

The estimated mileage will amount to 70 miles of travel for every one of eight million men, women and children in Michigan.

New Belted Tire To Last Longer

By CHARLES C. CAIN
DETROIT (AP) — You won't notice it, but when the tire on your car rolls over one revolution, it really hasn't gone as far as the distance around the tire.

If that sounds hard to swallow, don't worry about it. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. announced today at its Akron, Ohio, headquarters the development of a new experimental tire that will go the same distance as its circumference when rolled one revolution under a load.

The tire will last longer and will be more resistant to cuts, a company spokesman said. Conventional tires don't go as far as they should, because the fabric cords are laid at angles to the centerline of the tire, causing the tread to squirm or "scrub" as it rolls.

In tire talk you'd say the fabric in the carcass (the base of the tire) is "bias-cut," making a "bias-ply" tire.

Belt Added
If the cords were laid at right-angles to the centerline, as they are in European tires, they'd be "radial-ply" tires. Radial ply tires also feature a belt of fabric between the tread and the carcass which, unlike the cords in the carcass, is not tied to the "beads," the wire hoops that reinforce the tire where it is attached to the wheel rim.

Goodyear has taken the belt from the radial-ply tire and slipped it over a bias-cut carcass.

The free-rolling belt cuts

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission has appointed Roy O. Fuentes as director of its Northern Michigan Regional Office.

The Northern Michigan office will serve the area north of Mt. Pleasant and the Upper Peninsula.

down the squirming of the tread as the tire rolls, said John J. Hartz, director of tire development for Goodyear.

The belted bias tire, Hartz said, not only gives more mileage and better handling characteristics than the conventional tire, but also is stronger and more resistant to cuts and bruises. The belted bias construction gives more stability on the road and increased sidewall strength, compared to the radial ply tire, he said.

Production Planned
Volume production of the experimental tire is still in the planning stage, a company spokesman said.

"The fact that the carcass cords are set at acute angles rather than at right angles to the tread centerline, as is done in the radial-ply tire, permits utilizing the efficient, bias-ply production processes," Hartz said.

Although Goodyear declined comment on the cost of equipment needed to produce the new tire, it is generally known in the rubber and auto industries that any major swing to radial ply tire construction would require expenditures in the billions of dollars for new equipment.

Presumably, the belted bias ply tire could be built on existing equipment used for conventional tires.

Hartz said the carcass cords in the new tire would be made of polyester and the belt would be made of a double layer of fiberglass.

Jury Convicts Airmen As Spy

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — An all-male federal district court jury has convicted a naturalized Air Force sergeant of conspiring to provide the Soviets with U.S. defense secrets. The verdict could mean the death penalty for Staff Sgt. Herbert W. Boeckenhaupt, 24, a native of Germany.

The jury ended 7½ hours of deliberation—broken by an overnight recess—in delivering its verdict Thursday in the courtroom of Judge Oren R. Lewis.

It convicted Boeckenhaupt of conspiring to transmit defense secrets and also of conspiring to obtain national defense information illegally. The first offense can be punished by execution while the second carries a maximum 10-year prison term.

Lewis, who will impose the punishment, deferred sentencing pending a probationary report. He told Boeckenhaupt,

"I want to help you, if I can, help you help yourself."

The young airman remained expressionless as the verdict was read. His 19-year-old wife, Sherry, closed her eyes and wept silently.

Boeckenhaupt's attorneys, who called neither the airman nor other witnesses to testify in his behalf, later said they'd appeal the verdict.

Boeckenhaupt, whose home is in Superior, Wis., was arrested last October at March Air Force Base, Calif. He worked there on electronic code devices used by the Strategic Air Command.

Lewis admitted into evidence, over defense objections, FBI agents' testimony that Boeckenhaupt admitted communicating three times with Aleksey R. Malinin, a onetime Soviet Embassy aide in Washington.

Gone, dear mother, gone forever; How we miss your smiling face; But you left us to remember. None on earth can take your place. A happy home we once enjoyed. Hush, sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness The world can never fill.

House Of Bargains To Open New Store

An expanded and improved House of Bargains will open its doors for the first time at its new location, 2000 Ludington St., at 9:30 Sunday morning, culminating nearly six months of preparations.

In Service

Ten young men from Delta and Schoolcraft counties and another from Engadine in Mackinac County have completed eight weeks of advanced training as combat engineers at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. They are: Pvt. Brian C. Wood, 23, Frank J. DeStrampe, 19, Ronald J. DeBord, 21, Thomas W. Anderson, 20, all of Escanaba; Robert L. Myers, 22, of Corneli; Eugene M. Drossart, 19, of Rte. 1, Gladstone; and Donald C. Howes, 24, Gladstone; William P. Guertin, 19, of Garden; James M. Weinert, 23, Star Rte.; Manistique; and Thomas D. Mercier, 20, Manistique; and Marvin D. Germain, 20, of Engadine. During training, all of the men received training in combat squad tactics, use of infantry weapons and engineer reconnaissance and in techniques of road and bridge building, camouflage and demolitions.

The business, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Al Dagenais, is being moved from 225 S. 10th St., where it has operated for the past four years.

Mrs. Dagenais is the store's manager.

The new location will provide triple the floor space of the current location and allow for addition of many new products and expansion of other lines. The store will be self-service with sales handled through a central checkout counter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dagenais purchased the former Town & Country Motors and Club A-Go-Go building in December and since that time the interior has been completely remodeled, relighted and stocked for retail merchandising.

The building, 146 feet long and 42 feet wide, provides about 6,000 square feet of floor space. Besides the clothing and shoes which have been featured at House of Bargains, new lines added at the new location include fishing equipment, transistor radios, health and beauty aids, jewelry and camp equipment. A 60-foot section of shelving has been devoted to household gadgets and small appliances also are available.

Grand Opening ceremonies will be held in the near future.

Dictatorship Fails To Quench Greek Spirit

By GERALD MILLER

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Military dictatorship has failed to change the mixture of Eastern heritage and Western methods that make up the basic flavor of life in Greece.

Democracy no longer exists in this land that invented democracy more than 2,000 years ago, but the physical signs of impact of other democracies can be seen and felt everywhere.

Poverty is no longer the hopeless burden it once seemed to be. Though still one of the poorest members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Greece, until the military takeover, was having the greatest boom in its modern history.

Even under dictatorship Athens is far more vibrant than any city in the Balkans.

Restaurants and taverns are filled with people, shop windows with consumer goods and streets with cars.

Television Growing

While television is still in the beginning stage the inevitable forest of antennas is rising. Athenians stand sometimes 10 deep outside appliance stores gawking at the foreign models selling at $400 to $600.

Sleek and busy with its new luxury apartment buildings, chic cafes and high-style offices, Athens nonetheless continues to show its old Eastern face under the Western overlay.

Turkish-style coffee shops abound along with tiny cluttered loft factories where workers produce textiles, closely fashioned leather goods, copperware and rugs.

The gaps between rich and poor are enormous but a middle class of white-collar workers, professionals and technicians has begun to emerge to serve the new kind of life evolving in the past 20 years. A vital factor in that evolution has been the infusion of $4 billion in U.S.

IN THE MONTH since the military takeover in Greece, King Constantine, left, has become a king without power. His future is uncertain. On the other hand, Col. George Papadopoulos, right, intelligence officer who was the brains behind the military coup, appears to be developing as the future dictator in Greece. (AP Wirephoto) aid since the proclamation of the Truman Doctrine in 1947.

This aid brought roads, bridges, farm improvements, better port facilities, airports, tractors, terracing, fertilizer plants, and a national power system.

American aid also equipped the armed forces.

With its physical and economic improvements and the degree of stability it helped create, American aid was crucial in attracting the interest of foreign investors.

Economy Is Fragile

Tourism skyrocketed. Foreigners who fell in love with the country turned out books, movies and a musical comedy lauding the Greeks as frank, earthy, life-loving people.

Despite the boom and the surface look of relative prosperity, the economy is fragile and lopsided. The coup's effect on tourism and foreign investment could wipe out the gains of recent years.

California May Start 6-Year-Olds In Driver Training

LOS ANGELES (AP)—California soon may be putting first-graders behind the wheel. Russ Walton, assistant state transportation administrator, predicts the 6-year-olds may be zooming around the playground in their own tiny cars in driving safety training.

"We must motivate drivers with lifelong safety habits in the first grade or perhaps even in kindergarten," Walton said Thursday in addressing 6,000 delegates at an annual safety conference.

State Boundary Set In Meeting 130 Years Ago

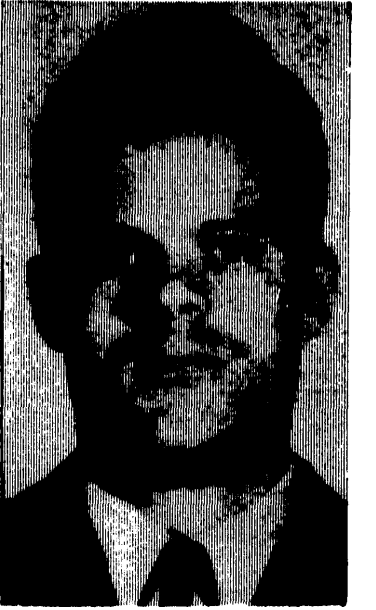

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Today is a day of honor in Ann Arbor for a meeting 130 years ago that paved the way to statehood for Michigan.

The meeting was held to settle a boundary dispute between the territories of Michigan and Ohio and the result formed Michigan's boundaries much as they are known today.

Descendants of delegates at that meeting have been invited to today's unveiling of a plaque to mark the spot where the meeting took place Dec. 13, 1836.

The ceremony is a delayed commemoration of Heritage Day.

The famous quotation, "The pen is mightier than the sword," is from Edward Bulwer-Lytton's play, "Richelieu."
